PREFACE.

Mr. J. A. Nexsen has long been known as an ardent Numismatist in the field of Roman, early French and English coins.

After each description of the ancient coins and of some of the foreign coins we have placed the valuation for the information of bidders, as we find from long experience that American collectors do not know their market value, nor have they really, means of learning the values of ancient coins and at previous sales we have received numbers of worthless bids which fail to obtain the pieces and which must only result in disappointment to the bidders.

These valuations are a just average of the value of the specimens, and collectors who desire them may safely bid more than these prices. Perhaps we should distinctly state, they are not limits, and the coins are not our property.

On account of the lack of knowledge, a few, or one or two informed bidders pick up the rare ancient coins in this country for nothing and collectors who may be perfectly willing to buy and who very much desire the coins, fail to obtain the pieces.

This system was employed many years ago, by the late Henri Hoffman, of Paris, one of the cleverest experts who has ever been in this business. We do not, therefore, claim the idea as original, but as his employment of it seems like a good precedent, we hope the experiment will prove helpful to the collectors of ancient coins in this country.

Coins are sold so much each piece and bids are so considered unless specified to the contrary. All coins and medals are guaranteed genuine. Collectors will oblige us by sending bids in as soon as possible. Priced catalogues will be supplied after the sale for 40c., stamps to accompany order.

Bids entrusted to our care receive our best attention, and our charge for attending to them is 10 per cent. of the amount purchased. No charge for executing those which are unsuccessful. Bids sent to the auctioneers are executed by them free of commission, but they assume no responsibility and require payment to be made prior to shipment of the goods.
